

May 11, 2022

The Riley Group

Angela Gelfer joined RGI's team as a project geologist in the company's geotechnical department. She brings over six years of experience supporting geotechnical engineering projects, performing water rights work, hydrogeologic studies and construction monitoring. Gelfer earned her Bachelor of Science in Geology while attending Western Washington University, and her Master of Environmental Science from the Hydrology and Water Securities Program at the University of Oklahoma.

Gelfer

Babb

Jessica Babb joined RGI's team as a project geologist in the environmental department. She brings approximately seven years of professional experience. Most of her career has focused on completing environmental phase I site assessments and due diligence investigations, as well as the management and oversight of remediation of soil and groundwater for local gas stations and dry cleaners. Babb earned her Bachelor of Science in Geology while attending Western Washington University.